Search Through Applications Draws A Blank

Officials at the local employment office are gray-headed and red-faced this week. The janitor work at the Craven and Gramercy avenue office is piling up but the officials can find no one with an application filed for a janitor's job. The regular office help are ready to turn the $200 a month job over to someone—anyone, willing to work the 40 hours.

Mrs. Winona Ellis is the person to see at the office. Since there is no one on the civil service list most anyone with a year's experience can qualify, Mrs. Ellis said.

Japan Training Keeps Engineer Outfit Hopping

SENDAL Japan—They're harder to pin down than that elusive little bean used in the old shell game, these engineers. Just when you think you have your finger on them at Camp Haugen, they've moved to Mt. Fuji, or if you manage to uncover their bivouac at Ojojihara, they've just walked up the gangplank for a little excursion to Chigasaki Beach.

Japan Training Keeps Engineer Outfit Hopping

Officially, they're the 578th Engineer Combat Battalion, bridge builders and Mr. Fixit's for Southern California's 40th Infantry Division, but they'll more often than not refer to themselves as "blankety-blank gypsies" . . . or something equally picturesque.

The division is scattered from Hachinohe, at the northernmost tip of the main island of Honshu, all the way down to Mt. Fuji, southwest of Tokyo. They're in a half-dozen camps, and 578th specialists have been hopping from camp to camp trying to meet the needs for bridge and road repair, water supply, map distribution and just plain odd jobs.

The organization's headquarters has been at Camp Matsu-shima, 34 miles north of Sendai on Japan's east coast, since its arrival in the Far East in April but "transient" has been the word for the "letter" companies. Company A, stationed at Torrance Ball Park before its induction last fall, has been getting around with the best of them.
